ISSUE NO. 4

Message From the President

As leaders and members of the SHTA, our focus is supporting and advocating for our excellent Shaker Heights Teachers, but we also need to voice our support for quality Shaker Heights principals, assistant principals, superintendents, assistant superintendents, curriculum directors, assistant curriculum directors, and human resource directors as well.

I know that an administrator's responsibilities and rewards go beyond management, but that is the central wheelhouse most administrators find themselves within. That managerial role is necessary. Teachers, students, parents, fellow administrators, and the community need administrators to maintain and sometimes create the structures, both legal and organizational, we have in place to effectively educate and nurture our students. However, there are crucial distinctions to be made between corporate and collaborative administrators. It is the collaborative administrators who have made Shaker Heights such an incredible place to teach, learn, and live.

The strongest Shaker administrators have always seen their central role as supporting teachers, students, parents, and the community. They have not been focused on enhancing their status or emphasizing their control over the schools. They have not believed in a "great chain of being" when it comes to education, with administrators at the top and teachers at the bottom. These terms have never been a part of our collective vocabulary in Shaker Heights, nor should they ever be.

As we search for a new superintendent and related administrative staff, we need to remind the search firm and our colleagues in administration that we need an administrative team that acknowledges teachers as colleagues and collaborators, not as corporate subordinates. The latter type of administrative attitude will harm this district as much, if not more, than a budget shortfall or lost revenue. The former type of collaborative administrator is the kind that has made Shaker Heights Schools the kind of place that put us on the map as a phenomenal place to teach, learn, and live. We need candidates who see administrators and teachers as complementary professionals. Fortunately, we have such collaborative administrators still in our schools. Now we need more of them.

It's been an unusually busy two months. I dealt with ongoing legal issues. I addressed a supplemental issue. I worked on the district calendar committee and on facility issues at the High School. I updated the SHTA Facebook page and the CCES Facebook page. I set up a meeting with Ray & Associates for Executive Board and SHHS Faculty Senate. I communicated regularly with Interim Superintendent Stephen Wilkins and Assistant Superintendent Terri Breeden. I communicated with HR Director Lois Cavucci on Support Teacher concerns and the Innovative Center/Blended Learning Lab. I worked on Aisha Fraser's vigil with the phenomenal Woodbury staff. I worked on the Aisha Fund for Aisha's Daughters. Thank you to Bill and Jackie Scanlon for your relentless work on this fund. I had the honor to speak at Aisha's Memorial at Olivet Institutional Baptist Church. I helped set up a trust for Aisha's daughters with Bill Scanlon and Susannah Muskovitz and David Banas from Hickman & Louder. I met with School Board President Jeff Isaacs. I invited members to the Ray & Associates Superintendent Feedback Sessions. I worked with Evaluation Committee. I met with Faculty Senate at the High School. I attended a successful Winter Hour at Slyman's Tavern organized by Selena Boyer. Thank you, Selena. I attended Fact Finding sessions for Support Teachers. I addressed a personnel issue at the IC/BLL. I addressed a potential scheduling issue at the Middle School. I spoke with journalist Geraldo Rivera on WTAM to promote Aisha's Fund and Aisha's Law. I worked on an evaluation issue and on a sabbatical issue. I worked on a personnel issue at the elementary level. I communicated with Interim High School Principal David Glasner about staff safety and environmental health at the High School. I worked on renewal issues. I communicated with administration on an issue at the Middle School. I communicated with John Koppitch and Mike Sears on the Middle School issue. I answered tenure questions. I assisted with a disability issue. I will meet with the CCES on January 24th.

Being the President of the SHTA continues to be among my most important life commitments. I had the pleasure of recently having lunch with Our Publications Editor Andrew Glasier, Former Treasurer Tom Patrick, and Past President Sal Fabrizio. Talking to Sal about the beginnings of the SHTA in the 1970's and the development of our pay scale, our school day, our benefits, and Our Association was truly inspirational and perspective building. It was incredible meeting a giant whose shoulders we continue to stand upon.

It's an honor to serve Our Association and Our Members. Please find ways to contribute to the SHTA this year as well in ways that are not strictly financial. Join Our PAC. Contribute to Our Newsletter. Run for representative council. There are so many ways to be involved. In the meantime, please contact me at x6033 or morris_j@shaker.org if there is any way I can help.

Respectfully submitted,
John Morris

Reports from the Executive Board

VICE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Happy New Year. I hope everyone had a restful break, is energized and ready to get back to our important work of educating the children of Shaker.

The Friends of the Shaker Schools Foundation are hosting the annual event, A Night for the Red & White benefit on March 2, 2019 at the Hilton Cleveland Downtown located on Lakeside Avenue East next to the Convention Center. Since 1992, this event has raised more than $2.7 million for educational enrichment focusing on the arts, technology, health and fitness. This year, money raised will go towards the Shaker Schools Foundation's Innovation Fund that focuses on STEAM initiatives. Staff members are again offered discounted tickets at $100. Tickets can be purchased using the following link. shakerredandwhite.org.

Please consider donating to A Night for Red and White silent auction. Donations from our staff have greatly contributed to this success. I want to thank those of you who made contributions to the Silent Auction for A Night for the Red and White. Donations from teachers are very popular sought-after items at the auction. Any member who donates to the silent auction will have their name entered into a drawing to win a ticket to the event.

I would encourage everyone to purchase tickets from the SHTA Red and White Drawing for a chance to win tickets to the event. The money raised from the tickets will help Our Association cover the cost of the tickets and our silent auction donation. Please see your head building rep. for tickets for the drawing. Thank you again for your generous support and contributions. A Night for the Red and White continues to provide substantial gifts to the Shaker Heights City Schools.

If you are a recipient of an SHTA Fellowship please forward your request for reimbursement to me at Woodbury.

Thank you for your continued support for your colleagues and the Association. Feel free to contact me with any questions or concerns.

Respectfully submitted,
Matthew Zucca

TREASURER'S REPORT

I wrote my last newsletter report in the second week of November, before the murder of our beloved colleague Aisha Fraser. John Morris called me that Saturday before Thanksgiving and informed me of the horrible news. I told my wife Jackie who teaches at Woodbury (Aisha's building) and she immediately said to me and John, "We need to get something started for Aisha's girls." She sat down at the computer and created the Aisha Fraser Fund on GoFundMe. Jackie instinctually listed "Shaker Heights Teachers Association" as the creator of the fund, assuring donors that the money would be handled properly and be used for the benefit of Aisha's daughters.

Through that whirlwind of a weekend the District Administration called off the two professional learning days and an army of Aisha's building colleagues began planning out the Monday evening vigil. SHTA members were cutting purple ribbons to wear in Aisha's honor, gathering candles, constructing votives, formatting the program, speaking with the media, organizing the student choir, preparing the sound system, and communicating with Aisha's immediate family. It was such a beautiful thing to be a part of; our SHTA family coming together to support each other in a moment of profound grief. It demonstrated to me one of the many unwritten truths of Our Association: being there for one another. Whether it happens in an overt manner like this or whether it's a quiet email or phone call to an administrator in support of a colleague, this is what a family does. This is what a union does. And I am immensely proud to be a part of this organization.

Since Thanksgiving I've communicated frequently with Aisha's close friend, who is adopting Audrey & Ava. I have also spoken with John Morris, and our SHTA lawyer Susannah Muskovitz. I met with the law firm of Hickman & Lowder to set up the trust for the girls. We've worked diligently in our endeavor to make the future care of the girls as stress-free as possible. The GoFundMe fund amount is over $181,000 and growing. We would love to see it reach a quarter of a million dollars. Those girls are going to need help for the rest of their lives, so please don't think of it as job done. Spread the word with your friends and family and encourage people to contribute. Jackie Scanlon deserves the credit for the management of the fund and the substantial communication with the GoFundMe representatives, and for her letter to the Plain Dealer concerning the fund.

Some of the other things I've been busy with over the past few months include communicating about our investments with Brady Krebs, our Edward Jones advisor. I've connected with our accountants at Hawkins & Co. to submit tax forms. I've communicated with members of the district administration about our colleague Jody Podl's administrative leave. I've spoken at both the December & January School Board meetings during the public comment time expressing my frustration with the lack of closure on this issue. I've spoken with the administration about the "review of the performance of assistant superintendent Dr. Terri Breeden." I feel passionately about our support of each other, in our own buildings and all across the district. The current financial report is attached.

Respectfully submitted,
Bill Scanlon

EXECUTIVE BOARD REPORTS

PROFESSIONAL RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES REPORT

Since my November report, I assisted the legal aid committee, completed surveys for the calendar committee and the superintendent search committee, attended the SHTA Happy Hour at Slyman's Tavern, assisted a member with sick leave calculations, answered questions about maternity leave and job sharing, and advised members with unpaid emergency room insurance claims. I also consulted with building representatives at the Middle School about the administration's response to disruptive students. I participated in discussions about the November professional days. I attended the vigil and calling hours for Aisha Fraser. I was inspired by the service, generosity, and kindness shown by all the teachers, especially those from Woodbury, during this tragic time.

All employees recently received this e-mail from Human Resources Director Dr. Lois Cavucci:

"The Shaker Heights City Schools Human Resources (HR) Office is offering a new benefit consultation service by Gallagher, Inc. Until further notice, all employees with benefit questions may contact our Gallagher representative, Kenya Spann, Gallagher HR Consulting Manager, at 1-847-273-3881 or spann_k@shaker.org for assistance. Ms. Spann will provide answers on the following areas:

- Benefit inquiries (medical, Rx drug, dental, life insurance, etc.)
- Enrollment, Qualifying events, or Claim issues
- Questions regarding leaves of absence, FMLA, sick leave.

It is our expectation that this service will exceed your expectations. For all other queries to Human Resources, please contact an HR team member.

As always, we are pleased to assist on your HR needs."

I wasn't aware of this change, as Insurance Committee meetings scheduled for December and January were both cancelled. Members should now contact Ms. Spann for help with the items listed above.

Members who use a Flexible Spending Account should have received their new cards earlier this month. If money from your 2018 account has not been transferred to your 2019 account, you should call the phone number on the back of your card and speak to Medical Mutual.

When entering an absence into AESOP, the system locks at 6:00 AM. I contacted HR to find out if this can be changed either to 6:30 AM or 7:00 AM. If you need to use a sick day or a personal day after 6:00 AM, you should e-mail your building secretary responsible for assigning substitutes. You may contact them by phone, as well. An e-mail provides documentation that you communicated your absence.

Based on the Board Notes from December, there is no plan at this time for a reduction in force. However, some limited contract teachers received e-mails recently reminding them that they will be receiving non-renewal letters in the spring. The school district does not have to notify teachers of a non-renewal until June 1st, so these e-mails seem a bit premature. In addition, the teachers who received these e-mails currently have positions that will need to be filled in 2019-20. Once a teacher receives their official non-renewal letter, they have ten days to appeal the Board of Education's decision to the school district Treasurer. If the Board affirms their decision to non-renew, the teacher can appeal to the local court of common pleas. I would advise any teacher who receives one of these non-renewal letters to follow through on all possible appeals, especially if they have high ratings from OTES and the support of stakeholders like parents and other community members. If you are interested in more details about these situations, here is a link to Ohio Revised Code 3319.11v1, which is titled “Continuing service status - limited contract - notice of intent not to re-employ”

Mike Sears, chairperson*

EVALUATION COMMITTEE

Greetings and I hope the New Year finds you well and your return to school has been as smooth as possible. As I have in the past, I would like to extend some specific reminders to everyone regarding evaluation. I continue to receive concerns about how administrative evaluations are being completed across the district. All evaluators are expected to follow the basic protocols of the Teacher Evaluation Process. Ideally, the process should be a tool used to build relationships and trust, spark reflection, and ultimately improve practice to raise student achievement. One step towards reaching this ideal is for everyone to have a shared understanding of the process and do their best to follow it. Please let me, or any member of the Evaluation Committee, know if you have questions regarding the following evaluation protocols.

- The Performance Rubric should be used to document and rate the evidence of performance gathered at lesson observations, walkthroughs, conferences, and from teacher submitted artifacts. Pre and Post Observation conferences, as well as the January Formative and May Summative meetings are venues for giving and documenting feedback and making recommendations for improvement.
- All Professional Growth Plans, Performance Rubrics, Informal Observation Forms, January Formative Forms and May Summative Forms should be uploaded to eTPES as they are completed. Your evaluation responsibilities are not complete until you upload the forms.
- Pre and Post Observations conferences should take place in the teacher’s classroom or teaching space, whenever possible. The committee all agreed that conducting conferences in the teacher's space is more conducive to trust building, open reflection, and access to evidence of environment and teaching materials.

Formal Evaluations for teachers on LIMITED contracts include:

- Three Lesson Observations (TWO in the Fall, ONE in the Spring) that include pre and post observation conferences at mutually agreed upon dates and times;
- Two informal observations of 3-5 minutes each (ONE each Semester) - data from these must be added to Performance Rubric;
- Completion of Performance Rubric throughout the year with data from lesson observations, conferences, informal observations, and any additional evidence provided by the teacher;
- And January Formative and May Summative Forms and conferences.

Formal Evaluations for teachers on CONTINUING contracts include:

- Two Lesson Observations (ONE in the Fall, ONE in the Spring) that include pre and post observation conferences at mutually agreed upon dates and times;
- Two informal observations of 3-5 minutes each (ONE each Semester) - data from these must be added to Performance Rubric;
- Completion of Performance Rubric throughout the year with data from observations, conferences, informal observations, and any additional evidence provided by the teacher;
- And January Formative and May Summative Forms and conferences

Informal Evaluations include:

- Two 15 minute informal observations (one in Fall, one in Spring) using the Informal Observation form
- No lesson plan or additional conferences are needed for Informal Observations

It is imperative that you reach out to me or any other committee member if you have any questions, concerns, or suggestions about evaluation.

*Respectfully submitted,
Lena Paskewitz, chairperson*

PAST PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Welcome to 2019. I hope you had a relaxing winter break and that you have had a smooth return to your classrooms. In December and January, I attended the meetings of the Board of Education. At the January organizational meeting, Jeff Isaacs was elected to continue as Board President while Heather Weingart was elected to serve as Board Vice President. Also, at that meeting, the Board voted to leave the Greater Cleveland Conference and return to the Lake Erie League citing issues of geographical distances as well as offensive behaviors from players and spectators from some of the participating schools in the GCC.

In news from the State of Ohio, Larry Householder has been elected speaker of the Ohio House of Representatives. Householder last served as speaker from 2001-2004 and has pledged that he will not bring Right to Work legislation before the House. He is also considering working on school funding, which has not received any attention since he was speaker more than fifteen years ago.

At both the December and January meetings of the Board of Education, SHTA Treasurer Bill Scanlon spoke during the time for public comment. He was eloquent and impassioned as he implored the Board to take action and begin the healing process for the deep wounds that have been opened by the mistreatment of high school teacher Jody Podl. He reminded them that they could fix this—without grievances, without arbitration, without attorneys—and bring closure to this painful situation. Sadly, to date, this has not happened.

I urge each of you to find your own way to be an advocate for our profession. Support the SHTA PAC (send a check to SHTA PAC via Bill Scanlon or Cathy Grieshop), write a letter to the editor of our Newsletter, speak during the public comment time at a school board meeting, attend rallies, donate to educational initiatives, vote/work for candidates that support education. And—be sure to participate in the selection process for the next Superintendent!

*Respectfully submitted,
Becky Thomas, chairperson*

POLICY COMMITTEE

As policy chairperson, I try to communicate aspects of our constitution to our members in order to provide clarity on how Our Association operates. Perhaps the section with the most utility comes at the end of our constitution. It is titled Special Policy, and reads:

POLICY FOR SOLVING PROBLEMS

A. We expect our members to take part in any conference so long as the educational needs of the child remain the focal point of that conference. If the conference is to be held outside of the normal school hours, then the member must be agreeable as to the time.

B. If a situation arises in which it is no longer possible to maintain a conference in which the educational needs of the child are paramount and there is no administrator present to terminate the conference then our member, with as much decorum as possible, should inform the other party involved that the conference is terminated for now and will be resumed if the other party so desires, when our member is able to secure Association/legal representation and/or the presence of an administrator.

C. If in a conference between a parent, member and administrator a situation arises in which it is no longer possible to maintain a conference in which the educational needs of the child is paramount, then our member, with as much decorum as possible, should request that the conference be terminated until such time as the member is able to secure Association/legal representation. The administrator should honor such a request.

D. Remaining in a conference that has degenerated into a forum for the leveling of undocumented charges cannot in any way serve any legitimate educational need and will only serve to make a future solution to the problem more difficult, if not impossible. A cooling-off period is needed. This is what we hope will be accomplished by terminating the conference.

E. As a professional association we have a dual responsibility: First, we must do everything possible to ensure that every member recognizes and assumes his/her professional responsibilities; Second, we must also insist that our members be treated as professionals at ALL times. We will support them with all our resources in this effort.

F. We would hope for the support of the central administration in our efforts to seek educationally sound solutions to problems that arise as we deal with the many complexities involved in our efforts to fulfill our professional responsibilities. However, we will continue to advise our members to terminate all negative conferences, to allow for a cooling-off period, and we will insure that the member will have Association/legal representation at any future meetings. We do not seek to avoid the public. What we hope to accomplish is to insure that an atmosphere conducive to the solution of problems on the highest level possible shall be maintained at all levels.

*Respectfully submitted,
Tim Kalan, Chairperson*

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

The National Education Association has a review of 2018 in education policy (http://neatoday.org/2018/12/20/best-and-worst-of-2018-in-public-education/?_ga=2.218190235.365336297.1546826830-332732774.1546826830). Encouraging moments include: RedforEd, the election in November, support for organized labor across the country, and the decline in school privatization. (Not a bad list!) Discouraging moments include: the decline of civil rights of vulnerable students, corporate tax breaks, arming of teachers, an attack on unions (highlighted by, but not limited to, the Janus decision of at the Supreme Court).

The Cleveland Plain Dealer report on January 2 that Betsy DeVos, U.S. Secretary of Education, has changed the policy on schools that suspend minority students at a greater rate than white students. Under the Obama administration that pattern could have resulted in a civil-rights investigation, but under the Trump administration it will not.

The 30,000 teachers in Los Angeles are expected to strike on Monday. The teachers are asking for better pay, smaller classes, and better learning conditions.

If you know of an education issue that is in transition in the legislative world, please let the Legislative Committee of the SHTA know about it.

David Klapholz

SHTA ST COMMITTEE

By unanimous vote by all members of SHTA-ST, the bargaining unit has ENDORSED the report of the fact-finder who ended our negotiations impasse with the District. His report recommended:

1. An initial boost in base pay, that would slightly close the huge salary gap between us and SHTA members, along with the same raises as SHTA (2% per year) over the course of the contract;
2. Elimination of the freeze in Support Teacher pay during the first three years of service;
3. The following language: "Co-teaching . . . [w]riting IEPs and 504 Plans, writing lesson plans, and developing assessments shall be considered Teacher work, not Support Teacher work." While Support Teachers can still do this work, if they do, then they will be paid on the Teachers' wage scale.

We hope the Board of Education will also endorse the fact-finder's recommendations, since many of us spend our days doing "Teacher work" without being paid as teachers. It is damaging to morale and to the trust of the faculty in the administration and Board to treat us and, by extension, the vulnerable students we teach as second-class citizens.

The Board will meet on January 22 at 7:00 PM in the administrative building to vote on the fact-finder's report. We would appreciate everyone's support and presence at the meeting!

Respectfully Submitted,
Bonnie Gordon

Encouraging moments include: RedforEd, the election in November, support for organized labor across the country, and the decline in school privatization. (Not a bad list!) Discouraging moments include: the decline of civil rights of vulnerable students, corporate tax breaks, arming of teachers, an attack on unions (highlighted by, but not limited to, the Janus decision of at the Supreme Court.
- The Cleveland Plain Dealer report on January 2 that Betsy DeVos, U.S. Secretary of Education, has changed the policy on schools that suspend minority students at a greater rate than white students. - Administrators not addressing placement of students. Parent not liking teacher on child's team, student placement was changed. The student is being split between two different teams. Discussion about this issue/student has gone on for three weeks with no solution.

Middle School, John Koppitch

Teachers are still frustrated with the disrespectful behavior of students towards educators. Nothing seems to happen when the MIT team is called and the behavior is not changing. Teachers feel that there needs to be more effective consequences because restorative practices are not working. We may proceed with a level one grievance in violation of article 21.01, with administration not dealing with the consistent unruly students.

- Administration has stated that they are hopeful that we can work together for a resolution.

Teachers are concerned that one specific administrator is not knowledgeable about the OTES evaluation process. Administrator has been late to observations, on phone and not paying attention during observations and not prepared to post-conference (with rubric) at post-conferences. In addition, administrator told a teacher, "I was under the impression that all boxes had to be checked within the same category, that's why I gave you all skilled." When the teacher asked how she could be better to get accomplished, this administrator had no suggestions, no feedback and then just moved all checks to "Accomplished".

- These concerns were shared with Ms. Hunter today. She stated that she takes our concerns seriously and steps are being taken to address the concern.

Teachers are wondering why students caught using illegal drugs had their consequences changed from ten day suspensions with a recommendation for expulsion to three day suspensions.

*Raven Perry, PTO President expressed her frustrations with the behavior of the students in the district. She has been a substitute at several buildings in the district and the disrespect of the students is awful.

High School, James Schmidt

- Attended the 50th Birthday Celebration for Bill Scanlon.
- Attended many meetings.
- Welcomed the Interim Principal, Mr. David Glasner.

Reduction in Force Hurts Students

This newsletter is a publication of the Shaker Heights Teachers' Association, an independent organization of professional educators in the Shaker Heights City School District. As the dawn of a new strategic plan approaches, I would like to publicly advocate for a different direction and vision than our current one. The tension between seeking efficiencies (Strategic Plan 4.4) and providing an educational environment free from barriers to learning (Strategic Plan 1.7) is admittedly a difficult administrative balancing act. Unfortunately, I believe during the implementation of our last strategic plan, decision makers prioritized monetary savings and fiscal prognostications over what was best for students in our classrooms. This philosophy of dogmatic fiscal restraint does save money in the short term, but I believe the costs incurred, both in the future as well as the present, render these policies unwise and myopic. From class sizes, to class offerings, to support for student's needs, we are currently not living up to our own expectations and standards. Why? I think part of the answer lay in the fact that many of our decision makers have either never worked in our classrooms, or are far enough removed from our teaching environment as to be able to rationalize decisions that remove supports or eliminate funding without understanding their day-to-day impact. These impacts are creating serious obstacles in K-12 classrooms for K-12 students, teachers, administrators, as well as the community that we are preparing these children to join as adults. As the board considers a Reduction-In-Force, I think it is critically important to have an honest conversation with the public about what that means in real, practical terms as they relate to our students' experience; teachers; support staff; administrators burden and outcomes for the community. Current deficiencies in our Special Education Department, possible class size increases at the middle and high school, and possible elimination of course offerings are all topics worthy of further scrutiny. However, I choose to focus on most families' first experience with our district: Kindergarten.

Kindergarten staffing has traditionally been a challenge because depending on when families register their children, district administrators do not know the exact numbers of students in order to build classes for the upcoming school year. This problem is exacerbated when the district adherence to savings causes them to always err on the side of the lowest possible staffing. Lomond's kindergarten offers a good example. Lomond currently has at least four sections at every grade level, except for kindergarten which has three. A number of years ago Lomond lost a teacher to an inter-district transfer. This teacher was never replaced. The pretext related to me was that this decision was based on the 'numbers'. Last year the three sections had 24 students each, with 17 boys in two of the classes! There are no aides assigned to these students at large. I would argue that these 'numbers' call for a different strategy.

Lomond still has just three kindergartens. On day one of this year, two of our sections had 24 students on the roster once again. This is problematic for many reasons not the least of which concerns the instructional challenges presented by large classes of students, some of whom have never been in an instructional setting, and some who have unidentified disabilities. Regardless of the teacher's abilities, management style or attitude, there is no way that students in overloaded classes are going to adequately have their needs met in relation to students who are able to receive proper attention and accommodation.

The Center for Public Education has identified nineteen studies that found reduced class sizes increase student achievement K-3. This is especially true for our at-risk population of students. The Annie E. Casey foundation publishes a Kid Count Profile every year, identifying state trends in children's well-being. Using that foundation's indicators such as health, family well-being, economic well-being and education, I submit that our Lomond community is the one most in need in our district. Nearly half of our students in the building are on free/reduced lunch.

The way to achieve equity in this circumstance is to provide supports for those most at-risk. Equity has become a popular slogan lately. But what does it mean if we don't support this equity initiative with resources? Students won't get what they need to overcome their obstacles, our schools continue to struggle with the burden of students not ready to learn, and our community misses an opportunity to be on the vanguard of educational best practices.

The irony is that by generating savings through staff level strictures, specifically at the kindergarten level, you are harming one of the most visible grade levels in the district. Families tour our elementary buildings to evaluate our adequacy. Why would we risk creating an impression that there were better options out there other than a family's neighborhood school? How many students do we lose this way? I can provide anecdotal evidence from a number of families on my own street over the past three years. Neighbors that live within houses of mine chose to send their kindergartner to another school this year outside of our district. Why? One of the primary reasons was the size of the classes in the building. I believe we can do better. We need to think about declining enrollment in a new way.

Simply using declining enrollment as an excuse for cost cutting and less staff becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy when you refuse to resource the very things that would make the school district a destination for everybody.

What would our 'numbers' look like if more of our neighborhood families were attending our schools? Amidst our current obsession with data, do we have any data on families who decide to send their children elsewhere? On the other hand, would such data conflict with our fiscal priorities?

Paradoxically, our current practice is to 'close' enrollment within a building's particular grade level if enrollment pushes class sizes too high. That is what occurred with Lomond's kindergarten this year. The result of this policy means that people who move to our Lomond neighborhood during the school year – many of whom have specifically chosen our neighborhood because of the strength of our community – must send their kindergartner to begin their school career at another elementary school. What a lost opportunity! The Lomond community can ill-afford such self-constructed obstacles to success and growth.

Traditionally Shaker has been able to rest on its reputation and the strength of its neighborhoods. In today's age of social media and State Report Cards where rumor, innuendo and misconception often obfuscates the genuine, I believe we need to create a positive narrative that is based in substance and easily demonstrated. A plan that is honestly based on equity, long term needs and best practices have costs, but these costs are justifiable, and as educators they are a necessity. I cringe when I think of the instructional opportunities missed, the good staff we have already lost, and the families we will have to win back because of short sighted decisions. I hope that moving forward we can transparently formulate a different calculation, and do so in a way where our community can understand the stakes involved.

Low Teacher Morale Hurts Students

This newsletter is a publication of the Shaker Heights Teachers' Association, an independent organization of professional educators in the Shaker Heights City School District. Signed editorials represent the opinion of the author(s) and may or may not reflect the thinking of other officers or members of the Shaker Heights Teachers' Association. Members and friends of the Association are invited and encouraged to express their opinions or share information via this newsletter.

Hundreds of studies have shown repeatedly that the most engaged workers are significantly more productive, provide higher customer satisfaction and outperform those who are less engaged. While these studies were done on businesses, their data also applies to education. When teachers are most engaged with their work, student achievement increases, families are happier, and teachers receive "better" evaluations.

Some of the characteristics of employers that have highly engaged employees are:

- Wages that are commensurate with the work performed
- Safe, comfortable and appealing working conditions
- Clear and specific expectations along with as much teacher autonomy as possible

- Two-way evaluations so that teachers are given the opportunity to provide anonymous feedback to their supervisors
- Administrators that are accountable for treating all employees with respect and care, all of the time

While this list is not exclusive, it certainly provides a starting point that as a community we can work towards.

Time and time again, the administration in Shaker has received reports of low staff morale, and in general, their response has been one of “you have a job to do regardless of morale”. When people have interviewed for administrative positions and have been asked about low staff morale, their response is often “well we can try to have activities.”

It seems that our current administration is missing two very important points:

1. There should be a purposeful focus on creating a supportive, safe and positive working environment, much like what is described above; it’s not about activities.
2. When such an environment is created, student achievement increases.

Interestingly, our administration currently uses a business model when managing the district and its employees, yet it is lost on them that their model is not working, and is actually doing harm. As cliché as it sounds, we are all here for the students. We all have a vested interest in seeing students achieve at their highest levels. Yet, the policies we have in place prevent that from happening.

Shaker Heights is an amazing district with fantastic teachers and students. The administration is doing a disservice to everyone by using an outdated, top-down business model. At what point are they going to realize they could get so much more “bang for their buck” by adopting what successful companies like Google do; treat their employees well. Happy employees do better work.
